

Still Danger In Areas Near Rivers, Lakes

From Our West Volusia Bureau

DELAND — Even though Hurricane Dora has passed, there still may be some resultant dangers to residents living in low areas, particularly along the St. Johns River and Lake Beresford.

Deane Smith, West Volusia Red Cross disaster chairman and DeLand Civil Defense co-ordinator, warned this morning that water levels in rivers and lakes still could rise even though the storm is gone. He added that residents in these areas should remain prepared for possible flooding.

Red Cross and Civil Defense aid is standing by if needed, he said.

West Volusia has experienced a number of other after effects of the capricious gal who couldn't make up her mind.

DEATHS

Anthony Sablatura

From Our West Volusia Bureau

DELAND — Anthony Sablatura, 77, 1097 S. Woodland Blvd., died at 12:30 last night in a DeLand nursing home where he'd been a patient for 28 months.

He was born in Czechoslovakia and was a retired meat cutter for the Home Economics Dept. at Cornell University. He is survived by one niece, Mrs. Mary Nagel, DeLand. Lankford Funeral Home is in charge.

Yesterday's heavy rains caused numerous washouts in county areas making some roads impassable.

Northeast of DeLand, Miller Canal washed out, undermining Marsh Road. Residents in the area, however, still have access via Carter Road.

There also were reports of bridges washed out or about to collapse in various sections.

Classes For Adults Set In DeLand

From Our West Volusia Bureau

DELAND — Adult education classes will get under way at DeLand High Sept. 28, Principal Alan E. Bailes said today.

Registration will be on the first meeting night of individual class at the high school. All will be in session from 7 to 10 p.m.

Bailes said the classes are intended for persons 16 or older who want to earn a high school diploma or those with an interest in one of the courses. There'll be a $3 registration fee.

Courses to be offered: social studies, bookkeeping, psychology, art, English, shorthand, beginner Spanish, homemaking, guidance, science, Americanism vs. communism, mathematics, typing I and shop.